

Tim Schnacke is currently a Criminal Justice Planner/Analyst for Jefferson County, Colorado, and is staff to the Jefferson County Criminal Justice Strategic Planning Committee, the county's policy-level criminal justice coordinating committee. Tim also serves as a part-time consultant for the National Institute of Corrections within the United States Department of Justice.

Tim's legal career includes private practice in Washington, D.C., and work with the City of Aspen, Colorado, and the United States Court of Appeals for the Tenth Circuit as both a Law Clerk and as Staff Counsel. Most recently, Tim served as Staff Attorney for the Colorado Court of Appeals, where he specialized in state criminal appeals.

Tim received his Juris Doctor degree from the University of Tulsa College of Law, his Masters of Laws degree from the George Washington University's National Law Center, and his Master of Criminal Justice degree from the University of Colorado.