Ballots are in the mail

(Golden) – Nearly 200,000 registered Jeffco voters will receive their mail-in election ballots in the next several days, according to Jefferson County Clerk & Recorder Pam Anderson. More than 197,000 mail-in ballots have been delivered to the United States Postal Service today for Jefferson County voters and should begin arriving in voters' mailboxes today.

“We’ve had a high demand this year from voters who want to have a paper ballot delivered to them by mail,” said Jefferson County Clerk and Recorder Pam Anderson. “It has been our goal to get those ballots to them as soon as possible, so we are pleased that we were able to drop off the bulk of our mail-in ballots this early,” she added.

Voters who applied for a mail-in ballot for the 2008 General Election before September 24th should receive their ballot early this week. Ballots for voters who applied since the 24th will be sent in a supplemental mailing later this week. Voters can apply for a mail-in ballot to be delivered to their home until October 28th.

Clerk Anderson continues to encourage voters to be prepared for a long ballot this year, and to cast your ballot as early as possible. To make it easy to prepare for your voting experience, go to www.votejeffco.com where you can access:

- Voter registration information
- Sample ballots, TABOR Notices and Blue Book information
- Polling place, ballot drop off and early voting locations
- Mail ballot tracking information

“Remember, November 4th is not the only day to cast your ballot; It is the last day to cast your ballot,” she said.
