Primary election results at VoteJeffco.com

(Golden) – Results for the 2010 Primary Election will be posted on the Jefferson County Clerk and Recorder’s website at www.votejeffco.com. By visiting the site, anyone with Internet access can view detailed reports of the Primary Election results for each race as ballots are being counted on Election Night, August 10, 2010. This reporting system was first implemented in 2008 and has received praise from the public, campaigns and members of the media for its transparency and the level of detail it provides.

“This system gives our citizens and interested parties detailed information on the results of each race by precinct, as well as updated turnout numbers,” said Jefferson County Clerk and Recorder Pam Anderson. “They can also view countywide precinct maps that display the results for each race as well as the turnout percentages in each precinct,” she added.

Anderson says the site will be updated approximately every twenty to forty minutes on Election Night, beginning with the first set of results from mail-in and early voting posted immediately after the polls close at 7 p.m.

“We are very pleased to provide this level of transparency to our citizens aimed at further strengthening voter confidence in the conduct of elections here in Jeffco,” said Anderson.
